

Cellular One Privacy Policy Summary & Cellular One Privacy Policy Revised & Effective July 17, 2024

At Cellular One, we are committed to maintaining meaningful privacy protections for customers that are both easy to understand and effective. Our Privacy Policy is designed to inform you about the information we collect, how we use it, and your options about certain uses of information.

Cellular One's Privacy Policy applies to website visitors, app users, applicants and customers in the United States. It applies across the Cellular One family of companies and the products and services we provide. In addition, some Cellular One services and apps, such as CHILL have additional privacy practices that are presented separately. If there is a conflict between this Privacy Policy and the service-specific policies, the service-specific policy governs when you are using that service.

The Privacy Policy does not apply any time you give information to companies other than Cellular One. Some examples are:

- When you use a non-Cellular One Wi-Fi Service;
- When you download applications or make purchases from other companies while using our Internet or wireless services;
- When you go to a non-Cellular One website from one of our websites or applications (by clicking on a link or an advertisement, for example);
- When you give your information to another company;
- If you use public forums - such as social networking services, Internet bulletin boards, chat rooms, or blogs. That information is publicly available, and we cannot prevent distribution and use of that information by other parties;
- Information about your location, usage and the number you dial when you are out and about and roaming on the network of another company; and
- When you purchase or use non-Cellular One products (such as wireless devices, internet browsers and mobile applications) in combination with our services.

Below, we've summarized key elements from our full Privacy Policy for your convenience.

Any third party business associate will honor the choices Cellular One customers have made about the uses of their information when they receive and use this data.

Except as explained in our Privacy Policy, in privacy policies for specific services, or in agreements with our customers, Cellular One does not sell, license or share information that individually identifies our customers with others outside of Cellular One who are not doing work on Cellular One's behalf without your consent. We may share information with our vendors and partners for business purposes and when necessary for them to perform work on our behalf. Cellular One may also share certain non-personal identifiable information with outside companies, for example, to assist with the delivery of advertising campaigns, provide aggregate business and marketing insights, or share de-identified information.

INFORMATION COLLECTED

We collect personal information about you in various ways. We may also get information from other sources, including from affiliates, and may combine it with information we collect about you. Personal information does not include information that is not used to identify you, including aggregate or anonymous information.

Information You Give Us

The personal information we collect includes information you give us, such as name, postal address, telephone number, e-mail address, date of birth, social security number or other government identification number, demographics, activities, location information, and personal preferences. You may give us information in a variety of ways, including when you sign up for services, or communicate with Customer Care.

Information That We Automatically Collect

We automatically receive certain types of information whenever you use our services. We may collect information about your device such as the type, version of operating system, signal strength, whether it is on and how it is functioning, as well as information about how you use the device and services available through it, such as your call and data usage and history, your location, web sites you have visited, applications purchased, applications downloaded or used, and other similar information. We may link information we automatically collect with personal information, such as information you give us at registration or check out. We may use systems or tools to follow your use of our services and other applications, including using cookies, web beacons and other mechanisms, along with analysis of network and device information. For example, we allow collection by analytic service provider(s) of site click-stream and cookie data to help us track aggregate and individual use of our services. We sometimes use cookies to enable features on our sites, such as the ability to save your shopping cart or set preferences. Advertisers and advertising networks that serve ads on our sites may also use their own mechanisms, including cookies. These third party cookies or tools are governed by the privacy policies of the entities placing the ads and are not subject to this Policy.

TYPES OF INFORMATION WE COLLECT

We may collect different types of information based on your use of our products and services and on our business relationship with you.

Account Information. Account information includes:

- Contact Information that allows us to communicate with you. We get this information when you order or register for our services. This would include information like your name, address, telephone number and e-mail address.
- Billing Information related to your financial relationship with us, such as the services we provide to you, the telephone numbers you call and text, your payment history, your credit history, your credit card numbers, social security number, security codes and your service history.

Technical & Usage Information. Technical and usage information related to the services we provide to you, including information about how you use our networks, services, products or websites. Some examples include:

- Equipment Information that identifies the equipment on our networks, such as equipment type, device IDs, device status, serial numbers, settings, configuration and software.
- Network Performance & Usage Information about the operation of the equipment, services and applications you use on our networks. Examples of this might include wireless device location, the number of text messages sent and received, voice minutes used, calling and texting records, bandwidth used, and resources you use when uploading, downloading or streaming data to and from the Internet. We also collect information like transmission rates and delays, data associated with remote monitoring services and security characteristics.
- Some Network Performance & Usage Information and some Billing Information is Customer Proprietary Network Information or “CPNI.” Unique rules apply to CPNI. Go to CPNI below to learn more about what it is, how we use it and the choice you can make about that use.

Web Browsing & Mobile Application Information such as IP addresses, URLs, data transmission rates and delays. We also learn about the pages you visit, the time you spend, the links or advertisements you see and follow, the search terms you enter, how often you open an application, how long you spend using the app and other similar information.

Location Information includes your ZIP-code and street address, as well as the whereabouts of your wireless device. Location information is generated when your device communicates with cell towers, Wi-Fi routers or access points and/or with other technologies, including the satellites that comprise the Global Positioning System.

Other companies may also be able to locate your device. For example, your handset manufacturer and your operating system provider may be able to locate your device. If you download mobile applications, those apps may be able to obtain your location directly from your handset or the operating system. Mobile applications that give you access to your employer’s network may also give your employer the ability to locate your device. We urge you to review policies of all providers.

Accuracy of wireless location information may differ. It depends on the technology we are using. For example, we can locate your device based on the cell tower that is serving you. The range could be up to 1,000 meters in any direction from the tower in urban areas, and up to 10,000 meters in rural areas. Wi-Fi networks provide more accurate location information, associating you with the place where the network is located - like a coffee shop or areas within or around that place.

Services such as 411, 911, a “friend locator” application or a navigation/mapping application, require more precise information. So for those we use a more precise estimate of location by associating the service cell tower ID with other information, like the latitude and longitude of the other, radio frequency parameters, GPS information and timing differences in radio signals. Depending on a variety of factors, those methods may estimate the location of your device to within 30 to 1000 meters.

Other companies may also be able to locate your device.

We collect information about you in the following ways:

We collect information that you provide when you use our products or services or otherwise interact with us. For example, some of the ways you may provide information to us include:

Web Browsing Activity

Our Websites. When accessing our websites, mobile websites, applications and widgets designed for your device or web-based experience, we automatically collect certain information about your device and your visit, such as your IP address, browser type, date and time, the web page you visited before visiting our website, your activities and purchases on our websites, and other analytical information associated with the sites.

Because there is not yet a common understanding of how to interpret the DNT signal, we do not currently respond to the browser DNT signals when you use our services and products or interact with our websites or online services. We do not collect information for interest based advertising purposes nor do we share or sell such information to third parties. However, web browsers and other third party web sites and apps that you use may collect and use such information. - Monitor, evaluate or improve our products, services, systems, or networks.
- Customize or personalize your experience with our services.
- Customize or personalize online advertising to bring you information about products and services of Cellular One that may interest you, including co-branded offers.

CUSTOMER PROPRIETARY NETWORK INFORMATION (CPNI)

Customer Proprietary Network Information, or "CPNI", is a subset of Personal Information that is generated in connection with the telecommunications services we provide to you. CPNI includes, for example, call details, call location information, and certain information about your rate plans and features. CPNI does not include your name, address, and phone number.

Under federal law, you have a right, and we have a duty, to protect the confidentiality of CPNI and we have adopted policies and procedures designed to ensure compliance with those rules. We will not intentionally disclose your CPNI to third-parties without your permission, except as allowed under FCC rules, applicable law, or explained in this Policy. However, if you are the primary account holder, you may designate other "authorized users" (for example, a spouse) to access and manage your account information, including CPNI.

If so, we may share with that Group Account holder customer registration and other information related to your use of our services.
 - Compliance with the Safe Connections Act. Cellular One shall abide by and comply with the Safe Connections Act (“SCA”) and all applicable policies and procedures pertaining to the SCA and line separation requests to ensure survivors of domestic and other related crimes and abuse violence can separate from abusers without losing independent access to their mobile service plans.

For example, you may agree to our sharing your information with other third parties to hear about their products and services. Use of the information you agree to share will be subject to those third parties’ separate privacy policies.

Disclosures to Third Party Application and Service Providers. You may choose to use services and products offered by third parties through our services or devices such as third party applications. When you leave our network you may also use mobile roaming services provided by third parties. Your use of such services and applications may result in these third parties collecting your personal information and obtaining information from Cellular One, including location information (when applicable). You may also choose to give personal information directly to third parties when using our services. In each case, personal information you give a third party will be subject to its terms, conditions, and policies – not this policy. You should review a third party’s privacy policy and terms of service before providing your information or using the service.

Business Transfers. Personal information about you may be disclosed as part of any merger, acquisition, sale of company assets or transition of service to another provider. In the unlikely event of an insolvency, bankruptcy or receivership, personal information may also be transferred as a business asset.

- To protect our rights or interests, property or safety or that of others;
- In connection with claims, disputes, or litigation – in court or elsewhere;
- To protect users of our services and other carriers or providers from fraudulent, abusive, or unlawful use of, or subscription to such services; and
